Imagine two people working at 99x.

The engineer

Solves hard problems.

Sales

Opens new doors.

Same company. Different worlds.

IMAGINE THIS…

“What if we lost our next client because we couldn’t find what we already knew?”

01 — THE HOOK

What if we've already solved it?

An engineer

Solves a hard performance problem.

Learns what works, what doesn't, and why. Then moves on.

Weeks later, sales

Needs to prove that experience to a prospect.

The knowledge exists. He can't find it.

02 — THE PROBLEM

Our knowledge is everywhere.
But not always where we need it.

05 — ENGINEERING × COMMERCIAL

From knowledge to opportunity.

Engineering — Commercial

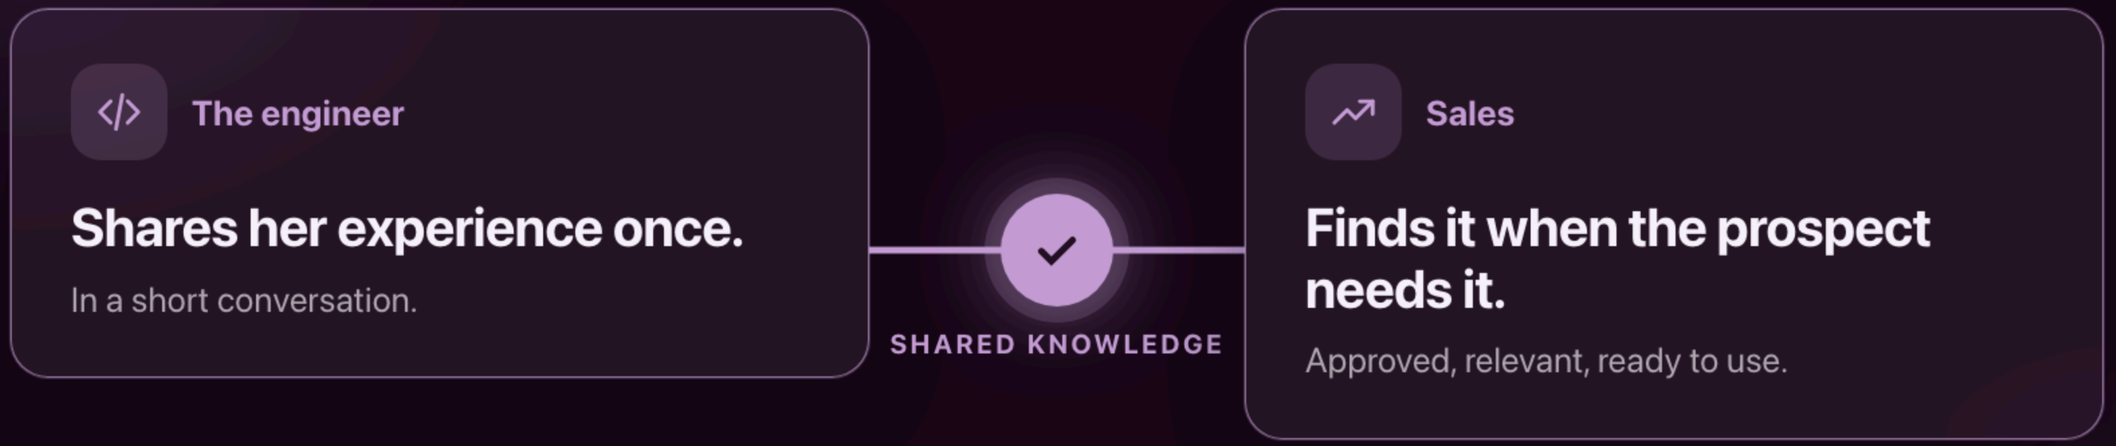

Less repeated effort

Expertise that's easier to discover

Stronger arguments with prospects

HOW WE'LL VALIDATE IT

- Time to capture knowledge
- Ease of finding relevant experience
- Approved cases used in outreach

The engineer
Shares her experience once.
In a short conversation.
SHARED KNOWLEDGE
Sales
Finds it when the prospect needs it.
Approved, relevant, ready to use.

The next opportunity is already here.

All we have to do is ask.
